Quality

Maral employs ERP for its 'Q' principle right from procurement to delivery. Stringent testing systems like HVI 9000 and USTER AFIS, online monitoring systems and state-of-the-art BARCO and Quantum contamination detection machines ensure best raw material and yarn quality.

The garment division implements SQC through panel inspection, mobile inspectors in line, by setting standards for individual operations on each machine and through 100% inspection of garments before finishing and packing.

QUALITY IS NOT AN ACT,
IT'S A HABIT

Maral Overseas Limited

Skill Development

Maral's well-trained staff is its biggest asset. Apart from regular skill development workshops for workers, staff and executives, Maral's technical staff constantly provide training to cotton farmers and ginners to improve work practices. Regular visits to international machine manufacturers are scheduled to keep track of the latest trends and technology in manufacturing.

Environmental Commitments

For preserving an eco-friendly environment, best practices are employed at every step of the manufacturing process. Water used in the fabric dyeing and finishing unit is not totally disposed, part of the water is used in the process house, after being recycled through the ETP plant while the rest is used for horticulture.

Seven thousand trees are planted every year in the factory campus, the school and nearby areas.

Maral's commitment to the environment can also be measured from the fact that we endeavour not only to meet legal norms, but in many cases, we exceed them which is best explained when we won the GreenTech Safety Award. Because, for us, nothing is more important than maintaining an eco-friendly environment.

Maral has also secured "Oekotex 100" certification for not using restricted substances in our manufacturing process. We maintain a pollution free atmosphere in factory premises.

PASSION FOR SERVING MOTHER NATURE

Community Service

As an equal opportunity employer, Maral Overseas views employee welfare not merely as an altruistic endeavor, but more as a business imperative. After all, a contented workforce is a committed workforce. Maral Overseas is committed towards overall employee welfare and also lays stress on community development activities like education, health care and providing basic infrastructure.

At Maral, welfare combines social compliance and sustainable development. Utmost care is taken to build and nurture a green environment. Facilities for automated banking, home provisions, a full time dispensary, a post office, a club with many sports have been created.

A School (accredited by the Government) with 700 students set-up and managed by the Company provides higher secondary education to children of workers, staff and neighbouring community.
